Cite Your Sources and Avoid Plagiarism
(Pre- and Post-Assessment)

1. Please determine which of the following is considered plagiarism. Circle the correct choice below each statement:

a. Paraphrasing an expression or a thought of someone else without giving proper credit.

Plagiarism Not Plagiarism

b. Following a source article sentence-by-sentence or paragraph-by-paragraph, even though none of your sentences are exactly like those in the source article or even in the same order.

Plagiarism Not Plagiarism

c. In an essay, including materials that came from a class lecture, without giving proper credit to the lecturer.

Plagiarism Not Plagiarism

d. Not referencing where you got information on a well-known fact (for example, saying "the U.S. Declaration of Independence was signed in 1776," without acknowledging where you got this information).

Plagiarism Not Plagiarism

e. Using an assignment from a previous semester and turning it in for a class you're taking this semester.
