Jesse Katz, author of “The Opposite Field.”

Tuesday, May 24th, 12:15-1:15

Bldg E3, Room 170, Language Lab

Faced with the collapse of his son’s Little League program—consisting mostly of Latino kids in the largely Asian suburb of Monterey Park, California—Jesse Katz finds himself thrust into the role of baseball commissioner for La Loma Park. Under its lights the yearnings and conflicts of a complex immigrant community are played out amid surprising moments of grace. Each day—and night—becomes a test of Jesse’s judgment and adaptability, and of his capacity to make this peculiar pocket of L.A.’s Eastside his home.

Jesse Katz is a contributing writer at Los Angeles magazine and the author of a memoir, The Opposite Field. A former Los Angeles Times staff writer, he has earned numerous honors over a three-decade career, including two Pulitzer Prizes for spot news reporting (shared with the Times metro staff), the PEN Center USA award for literary journalism, and the James Beard Foundation’s M.F.K. Fisher Distinguished Writing Award. Jesse has taught literary journalism at the University of California, Irvine, and he has mentored incarcerated teenagers as a volunteer at California Youth Authority. “Learning a language is a skill you can take and actually use it out in the real world. As long as you keep practicing it, it’ll always be useful to you, like a tool. My friend in Belgium speaks French, German, and English . . . I feel like I’m missing out because I’m only fluent in English . . . his life seems more enriched than mine.”
